Part of David’s practice involves supporting people with difficult behaviors and supporting the needs of person’s friends, family, and caregivers.

“Behaviors are ‘messages’ which can tell us important things about [a person’s life]. Learning to listen to an individual’s difficult behaviour is the first step in helping the individual to find a new and healthier story”

Stratford, Ontario

Stratford is situated on the Avon River in Perth County in Southwestern Ontario and is home to approximately 31,000 people. When the area was first settled in 1832, the town site and the river were named after Stratford-upon-Avon, England, of Shakespearean fame. Stratford was incorporated as a town in 1859 and as a city in 1886. The swan has become a symbol of the city of Stratford; each year twenty-four white swans and two black swans are released into the Avon River.

Stratford's economy took a major turn when the Stratford Shakespeare Festival began in 1953. The annual Stratford Festival now draws hundreds of thousands of theatre-goers and tourists to the area. The world-renowned Festival shows works in four theatres throughout the city: the Festival Theatre, the Avon Theatre, the Tom Patterson Theatre and the Studio Theatre. St. Marys Golf & Country Club is only a 15 minute drive from downtown Stratford.
